Explanation for Course Create*

The purpose of the "x course" designation is to test pilot the course. The intention is to then later propose this course as a regular course with implementation of other possibilities within the course itself and/or expand with other related courses.

Proposed as an experimental core in multi-unit management courses.

This course is cross-listed with FAB 435: Multi-Unit Restaurant Management, which is currently a new course proposal at the undergraduate level.

Are you adding a Service-Learning designation to this course?* Yes No

If the Service-Learning designation is being added to this course:

A syllabus in Word or PDF format must accompany this form.

Graduate syllabi must meet the minimum criteria as required by the Provost's office (See Semester Memo under Executive Vice President and Provost Policies and Forms www.unlv.edu/policies). Graduate courses that are linked to undergraduate courses (300/500 and 400/600 level joint courses) must clearly state in the syllabus how the class experience and expectations are different for graduate students, what additional requirements students enrolled in the graduate level course must fulfill, and how the grading scale will be applied to graduate students.

Please attach a current syllabus by navigating to the Proposal Toolbox and clicking  in the top right corner.

Information about Service-Learning is available here. Faculty can visit the faculty Service-Learning page as well as the UNLV Guide for Service Learning for additional information.

If adding Service-Learning designation, syllabus is attached Attached

Research Article and Individual Presentation

Undergraduate

Each student will need to find a research article addressing a challenge and/or opportunity that the multi-unit fast casual restaurant segment is facing (the article may provide the solution or not) from an academic journal in hospitality or tourism or relevant trade journal and submit an article summary. The instructor must approve the article that you choose (two weeks prior to the due date). The article should also be current. Students are to be prepared to make a brief presentation (7-10 minutes) in class—summarize and share what you have learned from the article that they have read.

The paper should be 3-5 pages and include following contents:

- A brief summary of the article
- Application of the concepts and/or theories to hospitality management and the multi-unit fast casual concept.
- Examples of actual applications in the multi-unit fast casual segment that are not mentioned in the article
- Individual assessment of applicability of the concepts in the article in the multi-unit fast casual segment.
- Conclusions.

* Graduate students will be required to prepare 8-10 page paper with a minimum of five (5) peer reviewed journal article citations.

- Please adjust description to refrain from using term "introduction," as it is a best practice with master's level courses.
- Please elaborate on why this needs to be an X course, and not a regular course?
